I am a Fourth-semester undergraduate student in the faculty of computer science at Dian Nuswantoro University. As a laboratory assistant, I am used to working as a team and solving problems, and helping people who have difficulty programming at the official campus discord called "CSEIE" or Center for Students Excellence Informatics Engineering and also when someone asks questions in the laboratory. I am required to be able to think critically to solve a problem, conscientious, and creative. I like to explore something new and challenging, especially those that can improve my skills and experience
